Taste Testing

Our taste test went great this week! Thank you to all who donated food for our science experiment. We found out a lot about taste. Some things we thought we would like, but didn't. Some things we thought we wouldn't like, but we did! We found out, you'll never know what you like until you try it. We also found out that trying new food doesn't hurt us—just eat a cookie and the bad taste is gone!

New and Improved Website

Take some time this week to check out the new (or, at least, improved) keenonkindergarten.weebly.com. The same information is available, but I spent several hours this week trying to streamline and make things easier to find with drop-down menus.

"Useful Links" is now "Learning Links", and websites and apps are under each subject area. Religion is separate from the other Learning Links. The kindergarten handbook has its own page, as well.

Keep At Home Folder

Please be sure to check your child's "keep at home" side of their folder. This is where finished work can be found, so you can see how your child is doing in class. This side is also where important notes are placed if they do not need to be sent back in to school.

PSA

We had a great turn-out for PSA on Wednesday! For those who couldn't make this one, please attend any you are able to. For those who want to attend but can not because of scheduling difficulties (I know many of you work hard until 5 p. m. or later), please keep an eye out in both the Mariner and the kindergarten newsletter for one-time volunteer opportunities. We always need volunteers for Family Fun Day (in January) and field day (in June). We're also trying to start up some monthly family dinners.
